

Subchapter H. Commission Monitoring

40 TAC §§800.301-800.307

The Texas Workforce Commission (Commission) proposes new §§800.301-800.307 and §§800.351-800.359, concerning monitoring.

The purpose of the new rules is to consolidate into a general location in Chapter 800, the rules pertaining to monitoring of local workforce development boards (Boards), Board contractors, and subrecipients.

Greg Lee, Director of Financial and Monitoring Services, has determined that for each year of the first five years the rules are in effect, the public benefit anticipated as a result of enforcing the sections will be a more uniform and comprehensive process used by the Commission, its Boards, subrecipients, and contract service providers to help ensure the accountability of program funds and outcomes.

Randy Townsend, Director of Finance, has determined that for each year of the first five years the rules will be in effect the following statements will apply:

There are no additional estimated costs to the state and to local governments expected as a result of enforcing or administering the rules;

There are no estimated reductions in costs to the state and to local governments as a result of enforcing or administering the rules;

There are no estimated losses or increases in revenue to the state or to local governments as a result of enforcing or administering the rules;

There are no foreseeable implications relating to costs or revenue of the state or local governments as a result of enforcing or administering the rules; and

There are anticipated economic costs to persons required to comply with the rule. Those costs are estimated as those applicable to the small businesses referenced herein.

Mr. Townsend has determined that there will be no fiscal impact to the state for each year of the first five years the rules will be in effect. The Commission concludes that there will be no net cost to local governments for each year of the first five years the rules will be in effect. That is, if a Board is to be considered a unit of local government in this context (as is referenced in §33 of Article IX, H.B. 1, General Appropriations Act, Seventy-fifth Legislature, Regular Session), and if there stands to be some cost of compliance, then such cost of compliance will be an allowable portion of relevant federal or state grant-in-aid or contract assistance for which the monitoring is required. Mr. Townsend also estimates that there will be no cost reductions to the state and to local governments, no net effect on revenues as a result of enforcing and administering the rules, and no foreseeable implications relating to costs or revenues to the state or to local governments.

There is anticipated economic cost to small businesses and individuals required to comply with these proposed rules. The costs to small businesses are set forth herein.

Our analysis concludes that there would be definite and possibly significant costs of compliance for small businesses. While §2006.002 does not define "adverse economic effect," if the definition of "adverse economic effect" is presumed to be, or includes, significant costs of compliance, then there may be adverse economic effects. Our reasoning is based on the attached schedule of estimated costs of compliance prepared by monitoring staff. However, as noted above, it is important to take into consideration that any costs of compliance with a monitoring requirement will be an allowable portion of relevant federal or state grant-in-aid or contract assistance for which monitoring is required. Therefore, while there would be definite and possibly significant costs of compliance, these will not constitute net costs. And, while these costs may constitute adverse economic effects, it is unlikely that they will do so.

The schedule of estimated costs of compliance does not adhere exclusively to the distinction in §2006.002 of "small business" versus presumably a business that is not "small," and also with regard to "...the cost of compliance of the largest businesses affected by the rule...." Therefore, not being given any reason for another conclusion, the Commission has assumed that the costs of compliance for a small business would largely be the same as for any business that is not "small." In the schedule of estimated costs prepared by monitoring staff, a distinction is drawn to a business that is not "small" only by inference, in the conclusion that costs would increase relative to the number of programs administered and the volume of activity within each program (the inference being that the more programs administered and the larger the volume of activity within the program(s), the greater the likelihood that the business would not be "small.") While §2006.002(a) requires that an agency reduce an adverse effect on small business caused by a rule it is considering adopting (if it is feasible to do so), it is a materially relevant factor that the requirement for a monitoring program is a federal requirement (as referenced above), which is relevant to the preponderance of Commission programs.

The estimated costs for small businesses are estimated as follows:

1. The cost associated with coordinating and responding to Commission Monitoring Activities is estimated as $513 based on the following estimated expenses:

Drafting and responding to correspondence taking approximately .5 hours at a rate of $20/hour and 1 hour at a rate of $12/hour;

Participating in entrance and exit conferences taking approximately 1 hour at a rate of $20/hour and 2 hours at a rate of $12/hour;

Pulling information for the review team taking approximately 4 hours at a rate of $12/hour;

Participating in interviews and technical discussions taking approximately 3 hours at a rate of $20/hour and 15 hours at a rate of $12/hour;

Refiling information pulled for the review team taking approximately 4 hours at $12/hour; and Preparing responses to draft reports taking approximately 1 hour at $20/hour and 2 hours at $12/hour.

Indirect expenses are estimated at 15% of the total of the specified expenses.

2. The cost associated with developing, conducting, and maintaining a monitoring function to review contractor activities are estimated as approximately $37,495 based on the following estimated time and rates of pay:

Administering monitoring functions taking approximately 0.1 full-time equivalent position at a rate of $25/hour;

Developing and preparing a risk assessment tool 0.025 full-time equivalent position at a rate of $17/hour;

Developing and preparing a monitoring plan 0.05 full-time equivalent position at a rate of $17/hour;

Conducting detail monitoring work taking approximately .575 full-time equivalent position at a rate of $17/hour; and

Reporting preparation and follow-up taking approximately 0.125 full-time equivalent position at a rate of $17/hour.

Indirect expenses are estimated at 15% of the total of the specified expenses.

Therefore, in sum, our analysis of fiscal impact on small businesses is that there would be gross costs of compliance, but not net costs of compliance, that it is unlikely that these costs would have adverse economic effects on small businesses, and that, all other things being equal, the costs of compliance for small businesses would be largely the same as for non-small businesses.

Mr. Mark Hughes, Labor Market Information, has determined that for each year of the first five years the rules are in effect, there is no significant impact upon overall employment conditions in the State as a result of the proposed rules.

§800.302.Definitions.

The following words or terms when used in this subchapter shall have the following meanings, unless the context clearly indicates otherwise.

§800.307. Resolution.

(a) Resolution Activities.

- (1) The Board, subrecipient or contract service provider shall submit a written response, including related supporting documentation, to the Commission's Resolution Section for its review and evaluation.
